Subject: Health Care a Key Issue for Georgia Voters in Senate Race; Voters Trust Ossoff over Perdue to Protect Healthcare

Date: October 22, 2020

A new Public Policy Polling survey finds that health care is a key issue for Georgia voters, with 74% considering it either a very important or the most important issue when deciding who to vote for in the US Senate race. While voters are split in overall opinion of both candidates, with Democrat Jon Ossoff's favorability at 40-40 and Republican Senator David Perdue's favorability at 44-43, they consistently trust Ossoff more when it comes to the issue of health care.

- 49% trust Ossoff more to protect health care for people with preexisting conditions, while just 39% trust Perdue more.
- 48% trust Ossoff more on the overall issue of health care, while only 40% trust Perdue more.
- 48% trust Ossoff more to hold health insurance and pharmaceutical companies accountable, while only 42% trust Perdue in this area.

Meanwhile, a majority (56%) of Georgia voters oppose the Trump administration's attempt at striking down the Affordable Care Act (ACA) in court without any replacement. Just 33% think the law should be struck down. When voters hear that Perdue voted four times to fully repeal the ACA, a plurality (43%) say they are less likely to support him in the election, while only 32% are more likely.

Additionally, voters express serious concerns over the consequences of striking down the ACA.

- 68% say they have major concerns about eliminating protections that stop insurance companies from denying coverage or raising the costs of insurance for the 135 million Americans with pre-existing conditions if the ACA is struck down.
- 68% have major concerns about over 20 million Americans completely losing their health insurance coverage if the ACA is struck down.
- 61% have major concerns about insurance companies being allowed to stop covering the costs of prescription drugs if the ACA is struck down.

Public Policy Polling surveyed 686 Georgia voters from October 20-21, 2020. The margin of error is +/- 3.7%. 50% of interviews for the survey were conducted by telephone and 50% by text message.
