

PROTECT OUR CARE

Trump-Backed Texas Lawsuit Would Devastate Kentuckians

The future of our health care is at stake. On November 10, 2020 — one week after the election — the U.S. Supreme Court will hear oral arguments in California v. Texas, a case that could overturn the entire Affordable Care Act (ACA), ending its protections for 135 million Americans with pre-existing conditions and ripping health care away from more than 20 million Americans, all during a raging pandemic. As Senate Republicans continue to rush the confirmation of anti-ACA Judge Amy Coney Barrett, it has never been more clear that Americans' health care is on the ballot.

If Trump Gets His Way, Kentuckians Would Lose Their Coverage

- 542,000 Kentuckians Could Lose Coverage. According to the Urban Institute, 542,000 Kentuckians would lose coverage by repealing the Affordable Care Act, leading to a 184% increase in the uninsured rate.
- 31,000 Kentucky Young Adults With Their Parents' Coverage Could Lose Care. Because of the Affordable Care Act, millions of young adults are able to stay on their parents' care until age 26.
- 23,000 Kentucky Children Could Lose Their Coverage. Almost three million children nationwide gained coverage thanks to the ACA. If the law is overturned, many of these children will lose their insurance.
- 20,400 Kentucky Latinos Could Lose Coverage. The percentage of people gaining health insurance under the ACA was higher for Latinos than for any other racial or ethnic group in the country. According to a study from Families USA, 5.4 million Latinos nationwide would lose coverage if the lawsuit succeeds in overturning the ACA.
- Kentuckians Would Lose Important Federal Health Care Funding — An Estimated Reduction Of $4.4 billion In The First Year. The Urban Institute estimates that a full repeal of the ACA would reduce federal spending on Kentuckians' Medicaid/CHIP care and Marketplace subsidies by $4.4 billion.

If Trump Gets His Way, Insurance Companies Would Be Put Back In Charge, Ending Protections For The 135 Million People Nationwide With A Pre-Existing Condition

- According to a recent analysis by the Center for American Progress, roughly half of nonelderly Americans, or as many as 135 million people, have a pre-existing condition. This includes:
 - 44 million people who have high blood pressure
 - 45 million people who have behavioral health disorders
 - 44 million people who have high cholesterol
 - 34 million people who have asthma and chronic lung disease
 - 34 million people who have osteoarthritis and other joint disorders
- 1,799,500 Kentuckians have a pre-existing condition, including 240,600 Kentucky children, 904,000 Kentucky women, and 424,100 Kentuckians between ages 55 and 64.

If Trump Gets His Way, Insurance Companies Would Have The Power To Deny, Drop Coverage, And Charge More Because Of A Pre-Existing Condition

Before the Affordable Care Act, insurance companies routinely denied people coverage because of a pre-existing condition or canceled coverage when a person got sick. If the Trump-GOP lawsuit is successful, insurance companies will be able to do this again.

- A 2010 congressional report found that the top four health insurance companies denied coverage to one in seven consumers on the individual market over a three year period. A 2009 congressional report found that the largest insurance companies had retroactively canceled coverage for 20,000 people over the previous five year period
- The Kaiser Family Foundation estimates that 54 million people, or 27% of adults aged 18 to 64, have a condition that would have been grounds for coverage denial in the pre-ACA marketplace.

If Trump Gets His Way, Insurance Companies Would Have The Power To Charge You More, While Their Profits Soar

- Insurance Companies Could Charge Premium Surcharges In The Six Figures. If the Trump-GOP lawsuit is successful, insurance companies would be able to charge people more because of a pre-existing condition. The health care repeal bill the House passed in 2017 had a similar provision, and an analysis by the Center for American Progress found that insurers could charge up to \$4,270 more for asthma, \$17,060 more for pregnancy, \$26,180 more for rheumatoid arthritis and \$140,510 more for metastatic cancer.
- Women Could Be Charged More Than Men for the Same Coverage. Prior to the ACA, women were often charged premiums on the nongroup market up to 50 percent higher than men were charged for the same coverage
- People Over The Age Of 50 Could Face A $4,000 “Age Tax,” Including $3,264 In Kentucky. Because Judge O'Connor sided with Republican lawmakers, insurance companies would be able to charge people over 50 more than younger people. The Affordable Care Act limited the amount older people could be charged to three times more than younger people. If insurers were to charge five times more, as was proposed in the Republican repeal bills, that would add an average “age tax” of \$4,124 for a 60-year-old in the individual market, including $3,264 in Kentucky, according to the AARP.
- 58,059 Kentuckians In The Marketplaces Would Pay More For Coverage. If the Trump-GOP lawsuit is successful, consumers would no longer have access to tax credits that help them pay their marketplace premiums, meaning roughly nine million people who receive these tax credits to pay for coverage will have to pay more, including 58,059 in Kentucky.
- 83,989 Kentuckians Seniors Could Have To Pay More For Prescription Drugs. If the Trump-GOP lawsuit is successful, seniors could have to pay more for prescription drugs because the Medicare “donut” hole would be reopened. From 2010 to 2016, “More than 11.8 million Medicare beneficiaries have received discounts over $26.8 billion on prescription drugs – an average of $2,272 per beneficiary,” according to a January 2017 CMS report. In Kentucky, 83,989 seniors each saved an average of Kentuckians $1,194.
- Insurance Companies Do Not Have To Provide The Coverage You Need. The Affordable Care Act made comprehensive coverage more available by requiring insurance companies to include “essential health benefits” in their plans, such as maternity care, hospitalization, substance abuse care and prescription drug coverage. Before the ACA, people had to pay extra for separate coverage for these benefits. For example, in 2013, 75 percent of non-group plans did not cover maternity care, 45 percent did not cover substance abuse disorder services, and 38 percent did not cover mental health services. Six percent did not even cover generic drugs.

If Trump Gets His Way, Insurance Companies Would Have the Power to Limit the Care You Get, Even If You Have Insurance Through Your Employer

- Reinstate Lifetime And Annual Limits On 1,414,000 Privately Insured Kentuckians. Repealing the Affordable Care Act means insurance companies would be able to impose annual and lifetime limits on coverage for those insured through their employer or on the individual market.
- 1,884,719 Kentuckians Could Once Again Have To Pay For Preventive Care. Because of the ACA, health plans must cover preventive services — like flu shots, cancer screenings, contraception, and mammograms — at no cost to consumers. This includes nearly 1,884,719 Kentuckians, most of whom have employer coverage.
- Employers Could Eliminate Out-Of-Pocket Caps, Forcing Employees To Pay More For Care. Under the ACA, health insurers and employer group plans must cap the amount enrollees pay for health care each year. If the law is overturned, these cost-sharing protections would be eliminated. The ACA also barred employer plans from imposing waiting periods for benefits that last longer than three months.

If Trump Gets His Way, Medicaid Expansion Would Be Repealed

- 450,700 Kentuckians Enrolled Through Medicaid Expansion Could Lose Coverage. More than 15 million people have coverage through the expanded Medicaid program, including 450,700 in Kentucky.
- Access To Treatment Would Be In Jeopardy For 800,000 People With Opioid Use Disorder. Roughly four in ten, or 800,000 people with an opioid use disorder are enrolled in Medicaid. Many became eligible through Medicaid expansion.
- Key Support For Rural Hospitals Would Disappear, leaving Kentucky hospitals with $935 million more in uncompensated care.
